

Guide to house plants in Winter & Fall

Things to remember when caring for your house plants in the Fall & Winter

1. Day length is shorter your plants will get less light which means less growth during this time of year. Natural Shedding will occur.
2. More cloudy weather so less direct sunlight. Try to provide your plants with as much direct window light as possible
3. Less water and frequency of watering every 2-4 depending on soil moisture. If it is still wet from your last watering do not water your plants until it is dry.
4. Night temperature is lower during this time of year plants may go into dormant stage. Fertilizing and Trimming generally is not needed this time of year.
